

Abstract:

Multi-cylinder stationary internal combustion engine for driving at least one generator for the production of electric current, the internal combustion engine having a control device which selectively disconnects one or more cylinders during operation according to at least one control signal.

10051319 011902
20051319 011902